Southern Gulf NRM Sarus Crane Award Nomination Form for the Year of 2022

- The nominee can be any individual or group who either live or operate in the Southern Gulf region and who have been active in Natural Resource Management (NRM) within the preceding 12 months of the awards.

- Presented to a person or group who have made a significant contribution to sustainable natural resource management or the environment.

- Southern Gulf NRM Directors and Staff or any advisory group established by Southern Gulf NRM are ineligible for individual awards. However Director or staff membership of a community group does not make the community group itself ineligible for an award.

SG NRM CEO Andrew Maclean “The awards give people and organisations right across our region the opportunity to recognise ‘champions of the land’, individuals and groups that have achieved something special within our communities. Including but not limited to the areas of conservation and sustainable management and also community engagement and education projects with a positive environmental message.”
